

Where to Find the Best Snow Tubing in the Northeast

Have some winter family fun! Spend a thrilling afternoon whizzing down mountain tops at some of the best snow tubing spots in the Northeast.

ASHLEY RICHARDSON • FEBRUARY 17, 2021

Winter is officially here and snow tubing is the perfect way to break in the season. Sliding down mountaintops at full speed, quick breaks for hot cocoa, time with family and friends – these are the ingredients for a perfect day. Just remember to dress appropriately – your toes and fingers will thank you!

From Pennsylvania to Maine, these are some of the best snow tubing spots in the Northeast.

Note: Due to the ever-changing nature of the COVID-19 crisis, please see official websites before visiting to check for restrictions or closures.

Learn how ski resorts across the Northeast are implementing pandemic safety measures.

Snow Tubing in Pennsylvania

The home of the Pocono Mountains, Pennsylvania has plenty of places to go snow tubing. But if you're looking for crazy fast slopes and the best all-around action, head to Camelback.

Camelback Mountain Tannersville

As the biggest snow tubing park in the U.S. with 44 lightning-fast lanes, Camelback Resort has plenty of slopes to go around. Enjoy the traditional (and always awesome) snow tubing experience or try something a little different. Galactic Snowtubing features an after-dark LED light show bound to keep everyone excited once the sun goes down. Camelback also offers skiing, snowboarding, zip lining, a mountain coaster and the indoor water park Aquatopia. Purchasing tickets online in advance is encouraged.